

KATIE WATSON

with some time on your hands

Featuring Katie Watson
and teens from ArtLab + TeCo

Creative Resident Katie Watson's installation aims to take visitors on a "factory tour" filled with fantasy objects. This made-up world consists of multi-lingual signage, dust-producing appliances, and anti-aging antidotes. Watson's work explores the notion of time where fake TV commercials, animated images and objects evolve both physically and visually over time. Teens from MCA Denver's TeCo and PlatteForum's ArtLab worked with Watson during her eight-week residency to create videos and lenticular photographs for her installation. This exhibit is part of the Confluence Project, a shared Artist-in-Residence program between PlatteForum and MCA Denver.

TDYN Presents the A2(squared)F Anti-Aging Product Line

Artists: Thammana, Miles, Jonathan, Mallory, Haña

From our multitude of ideas we chose 4 products designed to halt, ease and reverse the anti-aging process. We chose to create an infomercial to showcase these pieces thinking that the best way to express how ridiculous the prospect of altering the natural process would be to utilize the most ridiculous form of advertising out there. "The things you don't need" network acted as our infomercial's home and a comedy was born.

IAAC

Artists: Savanna, Amity, Phuc, James, JoseJuan

International Anti-Aging Corporation operates an anti-aging clinic that people can come to if they are unsatisfied with their life and age. After going through the process, the patients are given all the tools to start a new young life.

Random Age Generator™

Artists: Ryan, Josh, Saira, Kate, Miranda

The Random Age Generator™ is a device that one uses to revert back to a younger age (or move forward, if they so choose). The user picks a range of ages on the dial and hits the GO! button. This causes them to change to a different age within that range. In an attempt to shed a humorous light on the insane side effects people are exposed to, there is a CHAOS switch that is activated as a result of over use and causes everything in one's reality to shift.

The YouthaPill

Artists: Rajeana, Sal, Dayveontay, Hajia

Our product is unlike any other with the power to change more than your facial features. Two pills. One of them makes a person younger and the other has the power to transfer a person back in time. These pills work but, like any other medication, there's a twist. Side effects can range anywhere from having a hunch back to becoming a little younger than what you actually want to be. Don't be fooled; our product is the best. Simply follow our rules and maybe your life could be free of wrinkles.
